Elis Gomer

“Mirroring the Intention” – mirror and mutual wills in practice

The potential pitfalls of mirror wills from a litigation perspective, including:

- Mirror or mutual? Appreciating the differences;
- Drafting problems in mirror wills;
- Potential problems in a litigation context.

Elis joined St Johns Buildings in 2009. He is a highly regarded specialist in property and estates work, particularly in the field of contentious and non-contentious trusts, inheritance and estate matters, real property matters and landlord and tenant disputes. He also conducts property and affairs cases in the Court of Protection.

In addition to his technical legal excellence, he is highly praised for communicating effectively with clients to identify the realistic conclusion for the case. Elis also takes pride in his ability to think tactically about how to best achieve that goal once it is identified.

Elis is a fluent Welsh speaker and has significant experience in using the language in a legal context and is always pleased to advise clients about bilingual or Welsh language litigation.
