Court of Protection

Shaun has a strong Court of Protection practice in which he regularly advises and appears on behalf of Local Authorities, Professional Deputies and individuals and their families.

His experience includes disputes over capacity, personal welfare (residence, contact, care and treatment), deprivation of liberty and property and affairs.

To his practice he brings an understanding of the sensitivities and challenges involved with applications to the Court of Protection and is able to identify the relevant issues and assist all those involved, in a measured way, so as to achieve consensus if at all possible.

Due to the nature of the issues involved, Shaun is happy to advise on an urgent basis and to undertake advisory and drafting work to short timescales.
